He also stated the proposals made by himself at the meeting concerning the appointment of a "conference" committee by the Board. He had no positive opinion as to whether or not the Board should do so and they had tried to find some actual virtues about it. With regard to the committee, however, they felt that it could not be other than an excess upon the Board's activities.

Long after the outcome of minor engagements in the late world war, the memory of the battle of Ypres, which was fought on April 22, 1915, will stand out as one of the most momentous days of that great conflict. It was on that day that the Canadian division, then a new unit, proved to the world that Canadian soldiers were not only brave, but also intelligent and resourceful.

When Great Britain's 1st Canadian Division, in the late world war, was sent to the front, it was a small force of about 10,000 men. It was a force of men who had been trained in the most modern methods of warfare, and who were equipped with the latest weapons. They were a force of men who were determined to prove to the world that Canadian soldiers were not only brave, but also intelligent and resourceful.

APRIL 22nd, 1915

From our lone prairies, from our far flung Rockies; They heard; they harkened to the Mother call. They did not wait to ask a host of questions; They offered what they had, their youth, their all.

They faced their dreadful death without one murmur, Gasping for breath, beyond all human aid. Whatever sins they were on earth committed, By their heroic death were fully paid.

Can we forget that day of glorious memory? Can we forget their death of matchless worth? Yes, who perchance may read this faulty tribute, With echo-bearing soul, will answer; No!

And yet, I pray you pause, and ask these questions, Did I forget this is a hallowed day? Did I forget the portentous my children? Of second Ypres, and did I bid them pray?

For those brave souls who lie asleep in Flanders; About St. Jean, St. John, and the other names, Have I done all I could to teach the lesson Of what they did? God knows 'twas no small thing.

In dying to give birth to our young nation, (Six years ago we said it through our tears) A goodly heritage to young Canadians; 'Twill not grow less among the passing years.

Where'er we work; in city, hamlet, country, To those brave men of Ypres, who reached their goal, Let not this day pass without signal honor, To those brave men of Ypres, who reached their goal.

—CECIL GOULD.

FOURTEEN YEAR OLD BOY CUT IN TWO BY TRAIN

Alex. Evans Loses His Life on Thursday Morning on Track Near Power House

Alex. Evans, aged 14 years, who resides with his father at 947 104th street, was instantly killed at 11 o'clock Thursday by a passing freight train on the C.N.R. tracks close to the power house. The body of the unfortunate lad was severed in two just below the waist, the upper part of the body being found lying outside the west track and the other part lying inside the rails.

C.N.R. engine 7012 was in charge of engineer Howard K. Chase and Henry Styrac, who were engaged in shunting flat cars between 94th and 95th avenues on the south line which runs to the south side of the power house. The train was between the cars. He was struck by the front wheel of the fifth car as the train went ahead and the body was severed until the train backed down again a few minutes later.

The body was first seen by Hiram Styrac as the engine backed past the front of the accident. It was immediately stopped at a distance of 25 yards from where the two bodies of the boy lay three feet apart. The body of the boy lay on the tracks and the other part lay on the ground. MEIGHEN AND BALLANTYNE BOOK PASSAGE

They Expect to Sail for England June 2nd if House Closes in Time

Ottawa, April 21.—The Citizen today publishes the following: "Right Hon. Arthur Meighen and Hon. C. B. Ballantyne, who have been named as possible candidates for the premiership, are expected to sail for England on June 2nd if the House closes in time. The departure is somewhat contingent upon whether the parliamentary session is wound up by that time. To proceed as early as that will necessitate a greater progress than has so far been made. The conference of premiers is scheduled tentatively for the middle of June, though it may be later. There is reason to doubt that the prime minister will leave until the session is over, and while his presence has been booked, the date of his departure may be deferred. "Extraneously to his going, there is to be a full discussion in the house on the 24th of the conference, including the naval question, the Anglo-Japanese alliance and the question of emigration from Great Britain to the western dominions."

AS FINE FOR HER AS FOR FRIEND SHE DECLARES

Mrs. Skitmore Being How Tan-Lac Helped Another Takes It Herself With Wonderful Results

"When a friend of mine, who had suffered from indigestion for years, told me how Tan-Lac had given her complete relief, and I saw with my own eyes how it had built her up, I felt that I could not do otherwise than try it. It has proved just as wonderful for me as it did for her," said Mrs. Ethel Skitmore, of 1817 Pine St., Winnipeg.

"My stomach was so disordered and I suffered so severely from indigestion that I had to be very careful of what I ate. My appetite failed me so that I could scarcely eat a thing, and I had terrible cramping pains in my stomach after every meal. I bloated up so that I was in such distress I could hardly stand it, and I was simply miserable.

"Five bottles of Tan-Lac have freed me of the indigestion and stomach trouble entirely, and have made me feel like a different person. My appetite is splendid, and I can eat anything I want. Nothing bothers me now, my sleep is sound and refreshing, and I feel fine in every way. I am certain that Tan-Lac has done for me what he has done for every, and just want to praise the medicine all the time."

ROTARIANS WILL SUPPORT SCOUTS IN EDMONTON

Boys Who Are in Need of Uniforms Are to be Aided by City Club Men

The great boy scout movement which aims to make sane and solid citizens out of the boys of today, was given added stimulus in Edmonton yesterday when Rotarians, following their usual meeting, demonstrated their solidarity in support of the boy scout movement by means both moral and financial.

Major J. T. Stafford, accompanied by V. C. Murrey, secretary of the Edmonton club, gave Rotarians an excellent talk on the aims and objects of the scout organization and made a fervent appeal for the assistance of every business man in the city to place the scout organization on the high and successful plane that its principles warrant.

Recalling how the Red Chevron club had taken the boy scout movement as an objective, Major Stafford declared there was a real need in this city, as well as in others, for some one to come forward and take care of the boys. It was the Rotarians duty, he said, for all business men to place the scout organization on the high and successful plane that its principles warrant.

An appealingly high mass of juvenile crime in some cities had dramatically demonstrated something that he said. It was the boy scout movement, the major said, that held the real logical medium for crime prevention. A boy's surplus energy demands some source of amusement and work.

The speaker declared that five hundred red scouts in Edmonton are otherwise unoccupied and it was for the purpose of these that an appeal was made to the business men of this city for financial aid. Each scout only costs $1.41, it was said, and if this money could be raised by the Rotarians it would be paid back by the scouts from some source of employment.

At the suggestion of Ross Adams, many Rotarians will take the names of all children of the boy scout organization and will see that they get them.

At Thursday's Rotary gathering, J. E. Brown, Jack McMillan, T. Thompson and Joe Laidman gave brief addresses on the goodness of Rotary. Mrs. Margaret Good placed the assembly with two excellent vocal selections.
